

Greetings from Honduras

This past Sunday was the presidential elections here in Honduras. The people of Honduras voted that day expecting an announcement in the evening of who was elected president, five days later and the government still refuses to announce a victor. There is much confusion and manipulation amongst those in charge of counting the votes. The nation of Honduras has come to a standstill. There is protesting and rioting everywhere. In the big cities stores are closed, and roads are blocked. We are asking you to pray for the nation of Honduras. Pray for the authorities to act responsible and fairly. Pray for the people to have peace and strength to stand righteously for justice. Pray that the Holy Spirit moves across Honduras in this dark time and that REVIVAL will break out in the hearts of the Honduran people. We also ask that you pray for us, we are 20 mins outside the capital of Tegucigalpa, were the worst of the tension and rioting is taking place. Honduras needs peace and justice. We are here in obedience to God's calling; the need is stronger than ever for the Word of God to be shared. Thank you for standing with us, we need you now more than ever. Thank you and God bless.

With Love
